Sketch of Thomas and Martha C. Elleman

THOMAS ELLEMAN was born in Miami County, Ohio, May 9, 1841, on a farm owned by his parents, one mile north and one mile west of Ludlow Falls, Ohio. He resided on the same farm until his marriage, at the age of seventeen years. Although young in years, he proved himself equal to battle with the problems and perplexities of life. He has always been a man of sterling qualities, influential in the activities of life, shrewd in business affairs, and true to his religious and national beliefs.

He owned and lived on different farms in Miami County, Ohio, until nearly sixty years of age, when he moved to Indiana. He had three sisters and five brothers: Elizabeth, John, Mary, David, William, Joseph, Rebecca, and Isam. All except John lived to marry and rear large families, all living their entire lives either in the State of Ohio or Indiana. His parents and grandparents leave an interesting history, which may be found in the Elleman-Ward record. His father died at eighty-one years and his mother at ninety-two.

On October 21, 1858, Thomas Elleman was married to Martha C. Jay, before union monthly meeting of Friends, at Lick Branch meeting house, Miami County, Ohio, according to the custom of the Friends Church. Of this union nine children were born; four died in infancy and five living with families at this writing.

Martha C. Elleman was born November 15, 1839, on a farm, three miles southwest of Troy, Ohio, then owned by her parents, which she soon fell heir to and owned until her death. She went to housekeeping on this farm and four of her children were born in the same house of her birth and in which occurred the death of her father.

She was the only child of Moses C. and Margaret Jay. When she was only six months old her father died of typhoid fever, at the age of twenty-one years, and was buried in Mill Creek cemetery, near Fredrick, Ohio. Her young mother went back to her parents' home with her babe, and for about six years taught school for a livelihood.

About this time her mother married an Elijah Jay, of the same name, but no relation to her first husband. They then moved to and lived till the mother's death on a farm west of Pleasant Hill, Ohio. Of this union there was born one daughter, Anna, who died in infancy, and six sons: Moses, Joseph, Alfred, James, William, and Enos. All lived to rear families, except Enos, who died at about fifty years of age, but who was never married. The mother died at sixty-one years of age and was laid to her final rest in the Union Cemetery, north of Ludlow Falls, Ohio, amidst most of her relatives and friends. The writer, a granddaughter, well remembers her as a sweet, loving, and affectionate grandmother. Much could be said about the excellent qualities, sweet, loving, and patient disposition of this second father, Elijah Jay, who died at the age of eighty-six years, at the home of his son, James.

Thomas and Martha C. Elleman owned and lived on a number of farms in Miami County, Ohio, but she died at their last home, a half-mile north of Ludlow Falls, Ohio, February 16, 1893, at the age of fifty-three years, and was laid to rest near her mother in the Union Cemetery. She lived a sincere Christian life and in her home her influence for good was keenly felt. She was loving to her husband, kind and motherly to her children, industrious, full of kind deeds, always in sympathy with the needy. She was a consistent member and elder of the Friends Church all her life.

Zealous and untiring in her work of love in the church and Bible school; faithful in visiting the sick with a cheery smile and encouraging word, lending a helping hand where needed. She now rests from her life's labors, but the fruits of these are still growing. Her years have been numbered, but of the activities of her life's work, there is no end.

After the death of his wife, Thomas Elleman chose for his second wife, Emeline Hawkins, of Richmond, Indiana, and was married on June 28, 1894, at the Hawkins homestead, on a farm, now in the corporation of Richmond. For about eight years they lived on a farm one-half mile north of Ludlow Falls, Ohio. Here one son, John Elleman, was born to this union, who is in West Point Military Academy at the age of twenty-three years. March 1, 1903, they moved to their present home on Randolph Street, Richmond, Indiana, where they reside in quiet peace in their declining years, although still active and in vital touch with every issue of the times, however great or small.
